Cessna T-37C Tweet

"Mistras", 361 MVE, 120 PM, Hellenic Air Force, 2002

The Cessna Tweet was originally created as a jet trainer as which it has been serving until today, famous for its shrill sound which earned it the nickname "Tweet". Later it was modified to become the A-37 Dragonfly a.k.a. "Super-Tweet", a highly capable ground attack aircraft, which was bought by many small air forces and was even used as a fighter as well.
