

Long March 5B

长征 5B

The Long March 5 is China's biggest and most powerful rocket, designed to transport large cargo to geosynchronous orbit. The Long March 5B variant was specifically designed to transport parts for the Chinese space station into orbit. It has only one stage, but is typically launched with an optional upper stage.